

At her very young age of 16, Nicole comes to U Can-DANCE with a wealth of experience. Nicole McIntosh began dancing at the age of three and has studied ballet, tap, jazz, hip-hop, lyrical and modern. She was invited to join the competition team at the age of seven. Ten years later, she is a very recognized, versatile and well-rounded competitive dancer. Nicole has won countless awards, titles and scholarships over the years and has traveled to New York, L.A. and Las Vegas to train and compete. Her favorite thing about traveling is meeting dancers from other states and countries. Nicole has received instruction from some of the top choreographers in the country including: Kim McSwain, Mia Michaels, Wade Robson, Brian Friedman, Shane Sparks, Dave Scott, Tyce Diorio, Chris Judd, Laurie Ann Gibson, Joey Tarwater, Gil Stroming, Dan Karaty, Dee Caspary, Mike Minery, Mandy Moore, Nick Lazzarini, Justin Giles, Mark

Meismer, Ray Leeper, Travis Wall, Ivan Koumaev, Nick Bass, Cory Finn, Marty Kudelka, Napoleon & Tabitha, Sonya Tayeh and many others. Several of these teachers know her by name, and she feels incredibly lucky that she's had so much opportunity before the age of 16. Nicole is currently training under Kim McSwain. She has hopes of signing with a talent agency in the near future and begin auditioning for jobs.

Nicole has grown up in the studio, and she has had the opportunity to demonstrate, assist and eventually teach the younger classes. Nicole's style is very patient, positive and upbeat....she is very excited to be here, share her training with the dancers. Currently, Nicole attends school at McKinney High School and resides with her family.